BRANCH OFFICE,
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA.

The Company, National in its character, offers by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rate of Premium, New Plans, the most desirable means of insuring Life, and free credit to the public.

The rate of premium being largely reduced, the terms are favorable to the insured, as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and misunderstandings which the latter are liable to with their Policy-Holders.

In the former, the policy holder has only to pay a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent. of the amount of his policy. In the latter, the Company, agrees to return all the premiums paid in addition to the amount of insurance.

The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the national Life Insurance Company of Washington.

THE BANNER

Obituary.

Alderman Johnson, in his Tuesday's pe-culiation, has rendered the unspeakable inestimable service of showing that the Government had not the credit to borrow a dollar except at ruinous rates. And also that the Government could not be trusted to pay its debts. Its credit was gone. All this was very gratifying to us. We would go to the Government for help in our hour of need, but we knew that it was bankrupt and could not help us. Thank God they have failed on both sides. Who would have thought it?

Velocipede Race.

This is a Velocipede race. A few days since Tyson and Johnson, two of our fellow citizens, had a velocipede race from Baltimore to Washington. The distance is forty miles.
Tyson rode a new machine, and Johnson rode his old one. Tyson beat Johnson by about two hours. Tyson's machine is lighter than Johnson's, and has the advantage in hilly roads. Tyson rode the forty miles in five hours and a half. Johnson rode his machine seven years ago, and it is a wonder that he could ride it at all.
Tyson's machine is a new invention, and is not in general use. It is a very fine piece of mechanism, and is worthy the attention of all who wish to ride on a velocipede. Tyson has sold the right to make the machine in Baltimore, and will soon have it in general use. We advise all who wish to ride on velocipedes to get Tyson's machine, as it is the best we have seen.

Fine Cattle.

We saw a drove of fine cattle on their way to the Baltimore market, a few days since.
They were from the farm of Mr. Thomas Hyde, in Harford county, and were the finest we have seen for a long time. Mr.
Hyde has a fine farm, and takes great pains in raising fine cattle. He has a fine herd of Durham cattle, and a number of fine horses. He has also a fine flock of sheep.
He is a good farmer, and deserves success.

Fine Apples.

We were presented, a few days since, by Mr. Thomas Hyde, of Harford county, with a basket of fine apples. They were of the Spitzenberg variety, and were very fine.
Mr. Hyde has a fine orchard of this variety of apples, and they are very fine. We thank him for his present, and hope he will favor us with another basket of the same kind.

During the heated terms of our summer months, the inhabitants of the great cities seek relief in our down east towns. Bangor and Eastern Maine generally will in future receive a large share of the attention. As the railroads extend among the inland lakes and forests, making the sporting grounds more accessible to pleasure seekers, this locality will become one of the most popular summer resorts. We should seek to make our city attractive, and thus enhance its value in this respect. The sidewalks of a city go far to indicate its general attractiveness. Other improvements may demand attention, but we believe our sidewalks cannot with propriety be neglected. So far as the sidewalks have been changed for the concrete, no complaint can be made. The concrete walk is the best we have, and there seems to be a general desire to have it substituted for our present apologies.

We trust that the City Council will give these subjects early attention, while the necessity for action is so apparent, and institute a system of roads and walks which shall be in the end economical, valuable, and creditable to the enterprise of Bangor.

A dispatch from Atlanta, Georgia, says the following appears in an editorial in the New Era in reference to the Georgia delegation now in Washington, including Gov. Bullock: "We loathe these monsters in human shape and hope they may perish by the way side and that the State may never again be cursed by their presence."

The above incentive to the murder of the Republicans is denounced by every respectable citizen of Atlanta.

defeat of the State Police bill. Why? Because it would injure the Republican party.

I did not say that I had just received telegrams from several Congressmen, but I think I stated that I had seen a telegram from several Congressmen urging the defeat of the Constabulary bill. If I recollect correctly I was attempting to convince Mr. Nye that in my judgement the passage of the Police bill, then pending, with such provision as it embraced, would be prejudicial to the unity of the Republican party which I felt the propriety of trying to avert feeling assured that the general success of the party should not be imperilled by any measure of doubtful necessity. While urging substantially this point, in my desire to show the doubtful expediency of the police act, I inadvertently referred to the telegram heretofore spoken of, and which was uppermost in my mind.

The facts as to the telegram are these. In the morning before I met Mr. Nye in the Senate, I had been discussing the merits of the police bill upon which immediate action was expected, and after leaving the party with whom the discussion took place, I met three prominent members of the House, one of whom, held up a telegram, observing at the same time that it was from several members of Congress, who advised that the passage of the act was dangerous at this time. My attention was called to the signers of the telegram. I remarked that that matter was already fixed, presuming that it referred to the police bill, which was occupying my thoughts. This was the telegram which I spoke of an hour or two later to Mr. Nye. At that time I fully believed its purport to be as I stated to him. It passed from my mind, as the matter which I supposed it referred to was disposed of in the Senate. Since this matter, a subject of private conversation, has been made public unnecessarily, the original telegram has been placed in my hands by the gentleman who received it, (a copy of which I now hold) and I find I am mistaken as to its contents, that it re-

Several bills were introduced, read and referred.

Preparations for the Execution of Easton and Twitchell.

PHILADELPHIA, April

Preparations for the execution of Gerrit Easton, convicted of the murder of Thomas Heenan, and George S. Twitchell, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Mary A. Hill, have been commenced at Moyamensing Prison. The execution will be a private one. Officials and six reporters are to be present. Easton in conversation today says he did not fire the fatal shot. He is ready to meet his fate. Twitchell appears to have lost much of that confidence which characterized him during his trial and after his conviction.

The Cuban Insurrection.

HAVANA, April

A fleet of ten gunboats is expected from Spain and orders have been sent to builders in the United States for construction of fifty more.

A battalion of artillerymen which lately arrived here from Cienfuegos, will probably be sent to the Yuelta Abajo region.

The Governor of the town of Guanabacoa, is banishing young men suspected of rebel tendencies.

A revival of the late volunteer demonstrations is anticipated on the arrival of volunteers from Catalonia, Spain.

Great Billiard Match.

MONTREAL, April

A great billiard match took place last evening at Mechanics' Hall between Joe Dion and Melvin Foster,—1200 points, pyramid shot and scratch barred, on a second sized carom table, for $1000 a side. This was the third and deciding game, each winning one of the two former. The betting all along slightly in favor of Dion. An immense crowd was present, among whom were a large number of New Yorkers, a majority of whom backed their men with spirit. The contest was very keen and the excitement intense. A magnificent play was made on both sides. On the eighth innings the game stood neck and neck,—even bets of $50 and $100 being made freely. At Dion was absent near two and won by 35 points. The score stood Dion 1200, Foster, 1165.

NEW YORK, April

A thunder storm accompanied by hail, passed over this city today.

George F. Nesbitt, the well known printer, died today, aged 61 years.

Monetary Affairs.

NEW YORK, April

Money market to-day is somewhat irregular. In the morning the demand was pressing. Rates paid on call were 7 per cent currency and 1-64 to 1-32 per cent per day on governments, and ½ to ¾ per cent on stocks. The market for same easier at the close at 7 per cent.

—A great conflagration is reported in the Argentine Republic. The Supreme Court, Campbell pleaded guilty to stealing another boat from the house of Dr. A. C. Hamlin, and was ordered to find bail in a like sum for his appearance to-day, and in default was committed to jail.

—Several more serious cases of gasoline explosions took place yesterday afternoon on Exchange and Harvest streets.—The chief of our city has been remarkably up to the present week, but within a day or two past the amount of drunkenness and fighting in our streets has been equally remarkable. Fighting Bird is at work.

BANGOR, April 7, P. M.

To Editor of the Daily Whig:

At a record of the action of the Common Council in your issue of the 6th inst., in regard to the enforcement of the Prohibitory Liquor Law, may perhaps convey a wrong impression, you will confer a favor by publishing the following, by which it will be seen that the order for the "City Marshal to enforce all laws impartially" was refused a passage only as an amendment to the original order as passed in the Board of Aldermen, and sent down for concurrence, as follows:

Ordered, That the City Marshal is hereby ordered and directed to enforce the law, known as the Prohibitory Liquor Law, impartially against all violators thereof.

Several amendments were offered and rejected. A motion to indefinitely postpone was also refused a passage. It was then moved to amend by striking out all after the word "enforce" and substitute therefor the words "All laws impartially," so that the order should read, "That the City Marshal is hereby ordered and directed to enforce all laws impartially."

On this amendment Councilman McGinty called for the yeas and nays, which resulted as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Laughton, McGinty, Varney, Patten, Cassidy and Roberts—6.

Nays—Messrs. Hersey, White, Dole, Strickland, Davis, Arnold, Bagley, Drummond, Bartlett, Low and Hodgkins—11.

The motion then received on the passage of the original order in concurrence, with the following result:

Yeas—Messrs. Laughton, Hersey, White, Dole, Strickland, Davis, Arnold, Bagley, Drummond, Bartlett, Low, Hodgkins and Roberts—13.

Nays—Messrs. McGinty, Varney, Patten and Cassidy—4.

J. H. HAYES, Clerk.

—Senator Grimes of Iowa, and family, leave for Europe the 24th inst. for an extended tour.

It cost me all of $800—more fool I. What can I do? My neighbors and constituents wanted a national dog law, for the better protection of sheep, and to raise the price of wool. Why, it would take full two years to learn the rules, and then I don't think I could do a hooter. But class these office-seekers.

Well here I go on the floor, however. Devil a bit. They got around the doors and send in their names. They talk up in the gallery, to see I'm there and then down they come. I did for the barber shops every day for a week, before they found me out. And then Littlefield, who wants to be minister to Europe, wrote home to the paper and said I had been made chairman of the standing committee on hair.

How long my friend would have continued his lamentations I cannot say, but he was interrupted by the arrival of sixteen of his friends, and left very abruptly.

LIFE IN ALASKA. One can hardly imagine the rapidity with which summer comes on in this region. On the 27th of May the river was full of ice. Ten days after the voyagers had to lie by during the noonday heat. The thermometer then stood at 80° in the shade. On the 6th of June the Americans parted with their Russian companions. On the 23d they reached Fort Yukon, having rowed and tracked 600 miles against a swift current. The trip lasted twenty-nine days, out of which they had laid by only three. A few weeks later they descended the same stream, having the current with them, in seven days.

They remained at Fort Yukon until the 8th of July, being most hospitably entertained. There were freshly-plastered walls, glazed windows and open fireplaces, magazines, stores, fur-room, and rice-well. Camped around the Fort were quite five hundred Indians, who had come there to trade. Some were quite native costumes of skin, others were decked out in cast-off suits of civilized peoples. One old noble, known as 'Red-Leggings,' was gorgeous in a scarlet coat, with brass buttons and epaulets. The Indians were of many tribes. There, for example, 'Foolish Folks,' 'Wood Folks,' 'Birch-bark Folks,' 'Eat-Folks,' and 'Hill Folks.'

The fur-room of the fort was a rare sight. From the beams hung marten skins by the thousand, while in the cheaper kinds of furs were lying upon the floor in huge bundles. There was a fair supply of the silver gray and black fox. There is a story that one unlucky employe of the Company bought a skin of a white fox, which had been cunningly dyed black, paying for it more pounds than he should have shillings; the overplus was deducted from his salary. 'Skins' are the currency of Fort Yukon. The unit is a beaver-skin, estimated at about half a dollar. Two martins count as one beaver, and so on.

The one thing which strikes the reader at once, and which confirms what is told by Richardson, Kane, Hall, and all other Arctic explorers, is the superabundance of animal life existing in these northern regions. Strange as it may seem, tropical and semi-tropical regions are almost bare of living creatures. Strain and his party wandered for weeks through the thick forests of Central America, never seeing an animal or rarely even a bird. But life abounds in the Arctic regions. The Kamchatdales have reindeer by the thousand. Wrangell and his friends during their brief stay at Nulato bought the skins of 800 white hares, which were used to cover their blankets. The Indians had caught them and appropriated the meat to their own use. Moose meat, varied by beaver, is the standing food of those who have got tired of salmon and such like fish. The delicacies are a moose's nose and a beaver's tail.

—A bear was recently caught in the vicinity of Mt. Washington, N. H., by a Indian and a Frenchman. They found her in a hole with her cub. They shot the old bear and killed her, and fired at the cub, hitting him under the shoulder, when he attempted to run out of the hole, but the Indian despatched him with an axe.

Vessel Burned

NORFOLK, April 9

The propeller Thames, which sailed from New York for Galveston on the morning of the 4th inst, took fire on the 6th of April, when about fifteen miles off Hatteras. The fire originated between decks, and burned the vessel to the water's edge. The hull went down in sixteen fathoms of water within four hours after the breaking out of the fire.

Geo D Ross, ship's cook, John C Hannan and Charles Mason, waiters, no seaman and a coal-passer, who put off in small boats, have not been heard from and are supposed to have been lost. All the other people on board the vessel including four passengers have arrived safely in this city.

The Thames was loaded with an assorted cargo and had hay between decks. The Captain is unable to account for the origin of the fire.

The Fire in the Mines

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9

It is reported that the fire is still burning furiously in the mines at Gold Hill, having broken out afresh this morning in the shaft of the Crown Point Company. It will be necessary to close the hoisting works in order to smother the flames. The bodies remain in the mines, and it is impossible to recover them on account of the heat and smoke.

THE LARGEST SOLE FACTORY IN THE UNITED STATES. The Caledonian of St. Johnsbury, Vt., gives in its issue of this week up to flowing very readable account of the great sole manufactory of Messrs. E. & T. Fairbanks & Co., which is located in that town. A personal visit to the premises some time since enables us to command the notice to the attention of our readers.

Last autumn we gave to our readers a few items in regard to the new and enlarged factory of Messrs. E. & T. Fairbanks & Co., of this place. Nothing of late unusual shipments of scales from our railroad station, and the arrival of large quantities of pig iron and other raw materials which go into the manufacture of scales, have been left to take place into the establishment and get some items in regard to the present and prospective operations of this house. The past winter has been very favorable for getting in their yearly supply of lumber. More than a million logs of good sledding has enabled them to get into their yard 2,500,000 feet of lumber, which is used in the manufacture of scales.

Last year this company manufactured thirty-three thousand large hundredand eight platform scales, including the immense railroad with scales than eight thousand tons of freight. Their pay-roll during 1868 averaged twenty thousand dollars per month, which is no small amount of money to be disbursed in our town. Usually the factory season of business has fallen off somewhat, but not so the past winter. Nearly their whole force has been employed, and they now work more than 400 men in their factory. The whole number of scales manufactured this year is twenty per cent in excess of the correspondent months last year. Their order for iron railroad track scales are largely in excess of any previous year. These scales are to be found upon nearly all of the railroads of the United States and Canada, and many have been shipped to foreign countries. Should we visit Russia we would find them on the railroads of the Czar or Don Pedro of Brazil. Ports, on the roads leading to them on occasion. These scales are to be found in daily use from Cuba to Canada, and have just finished loading the iron railroad in Pennsylvania. They are now constructing several large scales for the steamboats of the N. Y. and Providence Line, and Long Island Sound.

We are informed the duties paid at the custom-house upon the iron and steel of Cuba were furnished with these scales, amounted to the handsome sum of which is conducted and the receipts in a pound levy of that kind of merchandise. From present indications they will shortly be called upon to put these scales to the U. S. Custom House for the collection of that kind of duties. The United States Quarterly from foreign countries for sealed interest to the standards of the world now in use, pressing as during the past year or two, and we are happy to learn that the business is large and the prospects are very flattering. The stock in the West and South is large, and large shipments are being made by railroad, which in years past have been dull. Look to the opening of lake navigation. New machinery is being added to their already extensive facilities for manufacturing, thereby increasing their facilities for shipping. A visit to this establishment would richly repay any of our readers, and to a great extent would greatly surprise them. Bearest neighbors.—[Boston

The Porte, England, for the purpose of which has become a matter of history.

In the summer of 1858 a young lady of wonderful beauty and attractive manners was a subject that had puzzled the Dutch doctors for months. It was asserted among friends that she was poisoned, and that Mrs. —— an old woman of sorcery, was the person who administered the poison. The excitement ran high in the crowded ground, and the contest between the Germans and Germans (between a good) finally culminated in the scaling of a mob around the house of the accused with the avowed purpose of lynching the witch. After some objecting to summary proceedings, a party broke into the castle, and gave notice that, unless the mob desisted from violence, a heavy fine in Dutch morality might then be expected. The opportune arrival of the Americans had the effect to prevent the mob lets and dispersed the mobsters, for, striking with the sword, for days afterward asking what did you intend to do to the woman?

Oh, we was sent to turn the house, replied. Well, why didn't you do it?

Kase Fob couldn't let de ko to enter the house.

Why didn't you break in?

Oh, replied he with a considerable hauling, right to do that!

A lasting crime, indeed, comes with the little irregularity of a

THE CONDITION of our Mother Isles of English newspapers do not confirm the flattering picture of prosperity drawn of the progress of Great Britain, which is up with the times. The good government extolled by all Americans is not quite already referred to. The destitution which has resulted in the numbers of operatives being thrown out of work. The effect is to give a pulse of emigration to this country, as far as it is in the Rhode Island point of view. The historian Froude, in his eloquent address, affirms that the commercial life of England has been stained with fraud. "You can no longer say," says he, "that any article that is sold in the market is honest. We have false weights, false measures, false and shoddy everywhere." The reputation for the superior morality of the British people, and for trustfulness of public servants, are recent exciting attention, and one of the organs of the government has to speak of the present state of commercial warfare with the Alien Dow [illegible] and refers to the two branches of the Irish army in the field and the Irish navy in reserve. "Our Irish brethren are very much battering. The stock in the West are also [illegible] large shipments are being made by railroad, which in years past have been dull.
